Japanese Artist Pop-Up Shop (6th Edition)

Handmade Goods Created by Up-and-Coming Japanese Artists

New York, NY (November 15, 2019) – RESOBOX, a Japanese cultural gallery located in New York City is proud to announce their sixth Japanese Pop-Up Shop located downtown in the East Village!

This upcoming pop up shop will showcase new and unique creations by Japanese artists located in and outside of New York. Ranging from pressed flower accessories to customized washi tape and incense sticks, the pop-up shop will explore all areas of amateur crafted products.

The Japanese Artist Pop-Up Shop at RESOBOX was established back in August 2018 as a way for Japanese artists to gather, display and sell their works in the diverse city of New York. Now, it has grown to become a hot topic with more and more guests visiting each season, and with both new and old artists joining every event.

Unique and One-of-a-Kind Crafts

RESOBOX has selected the most meticulous Japanese artists to create what they are the best at, many of which are unique products that cannot be found elsewhere. Artists at the pop-up shop sell a wide range of their craft, including handmade stamps with original characters, origami resin earrings, unique embroidery pieces, hand-crafted wire accessories, avant-garde garments, the most delicately crafted beaded products, and more!

Handmade Japanese Quality Goods

As products made in Japan are known to be of top quality, the creations showcased at the Japanese Artist Pop-Up shop are of the best handmade goods that Japanese creators have to offer. Since these are handmade by artists themselves, accessories, stationary, clothing, bags, jewelry, beads are of the highest and finest class at affordable prices for everyone to enjoy.

Spreading their Craft, Exposing the Artist to New Audiences

Many of the artists taking part in the Japanese Artist Pop-Up Shop are based primarily in their home country of Japan. The pop-up shop for them is a way to get their products and word out to the New Yorker and American audience. As it plays a big role in expanding their artistry, the pop-up shop is a great chance to express themselves and also receive feedback on their pieces.

Join us for the 6th Japanese Artist Pop Up Shop this November 24, from 12pm to 6pm!
Japanese snacks and drinks will also be available for purchase at our cafe!
